

Intelligent Design v. Stupid Chance

by Dennis Lange

The only two options for the explanation of life are intelligent design or evolution. In other words, God created or the universe and life is simply a series of accidents. An evolutionist named T. Roszak wrote, "The irony is devastating. The main purpose of Darwinism was to drive every last trace of an incredible God from biology. But the theory replaces God with an even more incredible deity - omnipotent chance." ¹

There are 60,000 billion cells in the adult human body. Godless evolution teaches that they all occurred by stupid chance. Within each cell are 1000 mitochondria and evolution teaches that they all occurred accidentally. In the nucleus of each cell are chromosomes with their DNA. The DNA in each human cell, if unraveled and placed end to end, would be about 6 feet long. If the "coded information" in the DNA of a single human cell were in English, it would fill a 1000 volume set of encyclopedias with 600 pages each. ² Remember that there are 60,000 billion cells in the human adult, each with that staggering amount of information.

"A piece of skin the size of a quarter contains 1 yard of blood vessels, 4 yards of nerves, 25 nerve ends, 100 sweat glands, and more than 3 million cells." ³ There are about 20 square feet of skin if it were all flattened out. All this came about by chance? No, God created man.

There are 206 bones in the adult human, all there by stupid chance, according to godless evolutionists. The ribs form a cage to protect the vital heart and lungs. The backbone provides support yet allows movement.

Those who believe in God know all this was intelligently designed by the Creator. Evolutionists say it all occurred by stupid chance.

There are about 600 muscles in the human body consisting of about 6 billion muscle fibers. Involuntary muscles help our hearts beat, digestion continue, and breathing go on without thought. If we are to believe evolutionists, each of those 6 billion muscle fibers came into existence by stupid chance. It just happened!

It is thought that if all the blood vessels in the body (arteries, veins, and capillaries) were laid end to end, they would span a distance between 60,000 and 100,000 miles. Atheists are forced to say that every single millimeter came about by stupid chance.

Add to all that the marvelous human eye, the clever intricate design of the ear, the lungs, the skin, the efficient filtering of the kidneys, and the stomach that produces acid that should eat through it. There is the heart, the reproductive system, the digestion system and much more. And all that came into existence by stupid chance?

That's not even common sense.

God exists.

¹ Roszak, T., Unfinished Animal, 1975, pp.101-102

²Gore, Rick, National Geographic, 1976, p.357.

³Youmans, W.B., World Book Encyclopedia, (Chicago: World Book-Childcraft International, Inc.), 1979, Vol.17, p.404d.